A New Day in Health Care

November 28, 2018

To Our Valued Plan Sponsors,

We are excited to share that CVS Health, the nation's premier health innovation company, has completed its acquisition of Aetna.

The combination of CVS Health and Aetna is a transformative moment for our company and our industry. With the combined capabilities of two leading organizations, our goal is to help transform the consumer health experience through a new innovative health care model that is easier to use, less expensive and puts consumers at the center of their care. Our new company will have a local focus, engaging consumers with the care they need when and where they need it, will make a complicated system simpler for all and will help people achieve better health at a lower cost. We are also committed to leading change in health care by challenging the status quo with new technologies, business models and partnerships. In doing so, we will deliver on our purpose of helping people on their path to better health.

Your employees and their families will continue to receive the same great products, support and service that they receive today. Over time as we integrate our companies, we expect to offer new services and plans that build on our combined capabilities. We will keep you informed every step of the way so that you can make choices that best meet your health care needs.

If you have any questions, you may visit www.Aetna.com for more information.

We greatly value our relationship with you and appreciate your business.
