4 Dedication

Someone walks through the door, introduces themselves and expresses that they would like to work for our department. The applicant adds that they are willing to work any schedule we desire, without pay or benefits. Anyone would recognize this behavior as irregular. But to the Lincoln Police Department, these actions are mainstream and encouraged.

Volunteers are applying to the Lincoln Police Department with ever increasing frequency. What started as an occasional, temporary happening, has grown to a large, full-time, coordinated and important aspect of our organization.

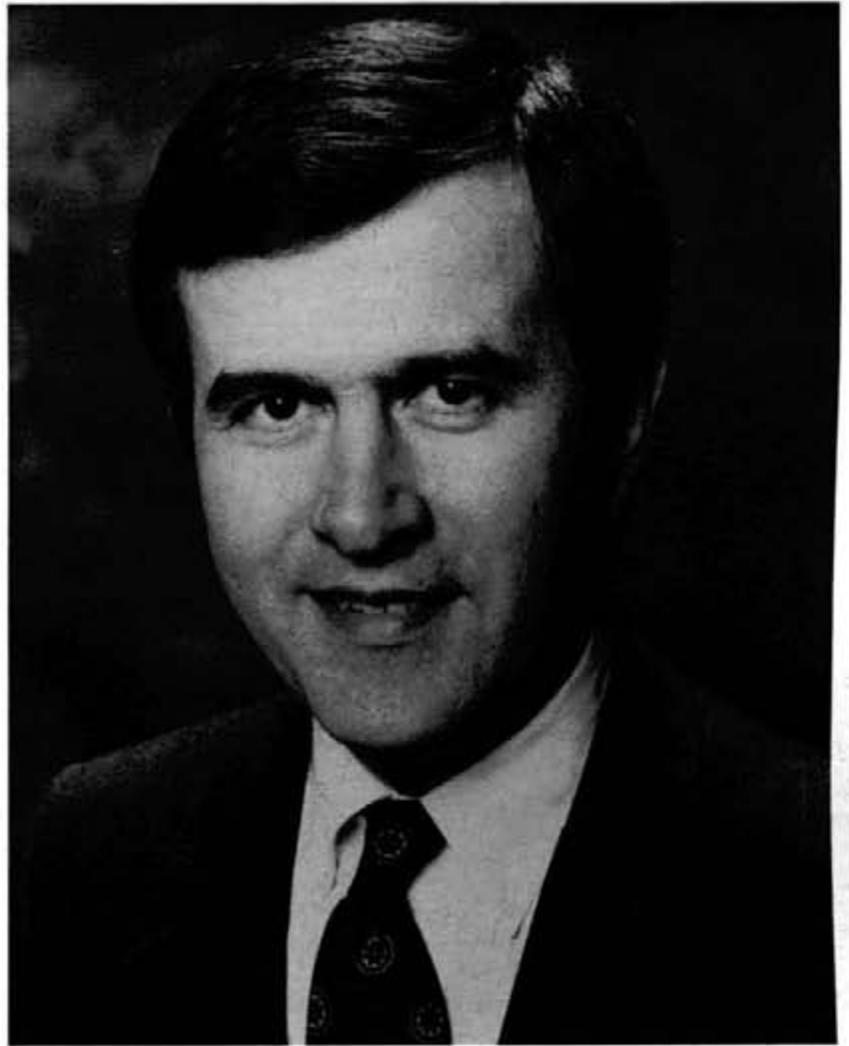

Volunteers serve in all areas of the department. This is not mundane drudgery. They fill viable, functioning positions that greatly contribute to our success. Volunteers staff our Chaplaincy Corps, Victim Witness, Personnel & Training, Criminal Investigations, Community Services, and Inspections units.

Volunteers are a special part of our family. People usually spend their leisure time with friends, family and hobbies. Our volunteers choose to add one more aspect to their lives; the Lincoln Police Department.

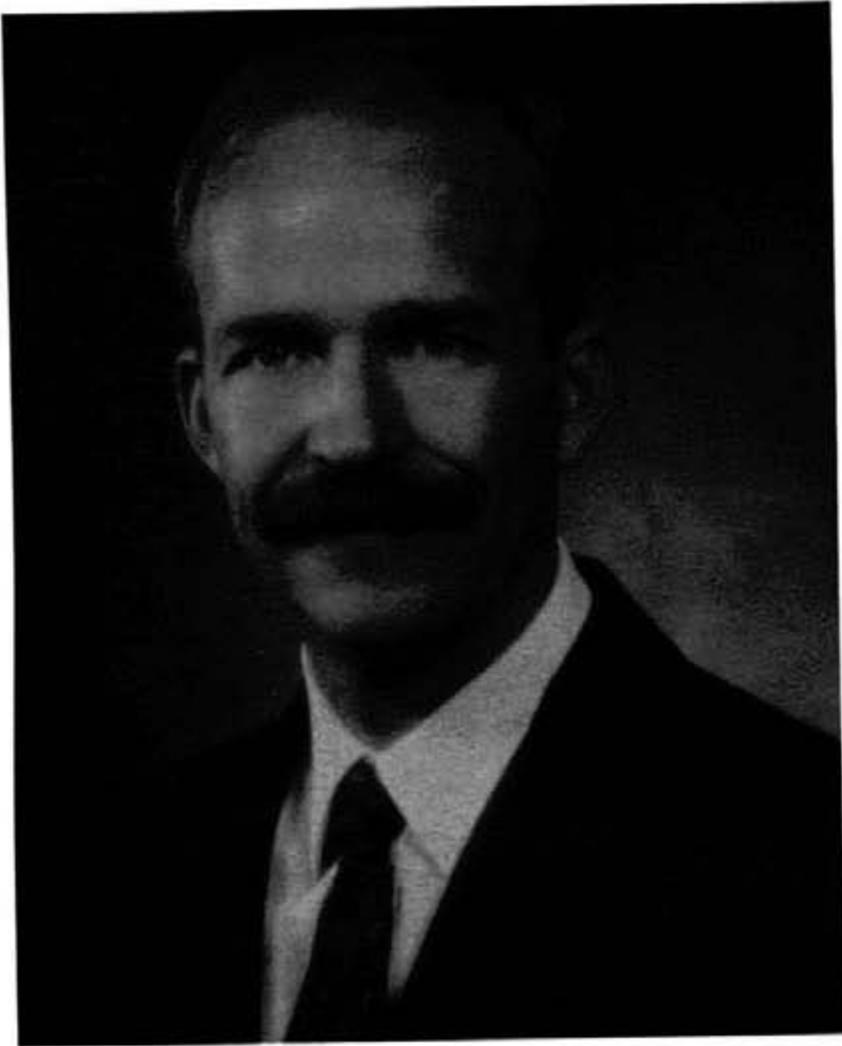

Volunteers are one of our best kept secrets. They provide a vital link between the department and the community. They are very unique people who have greatly contributed to the department and taught us a great deal.

Therefore, this annual report is dedicated to the volunteers of the Lincoln Police Department.

Mayor Johanns
Members of the City Council
Fellow Citizens of Lincoln:

I am pleased to submit the annual report of the Lincoln Police Department for 1993. This report provides an overview of the organization and operations of the police department, and serves as a valuable repository for historical data about our major activities. By documenting such facts, we can more effectively gauge past trends and plan for future needs.

As Lincoln's population nudges the 200,000 mark, we have all noted the changes which are transforming Lincoln from a "big, small town" into a "small, big city." Some of these changes have been quite evident, such as the growth in our population and land area, and substantial new residential and commercial development. Others, however, may be less evident, but even more significant, such as the increasing diversity of our population, the increasing demand for governmental services, and in the nature of problems which confront us.

Sensing such demographic and social changes, the police department initiated a comprehensive strategic planning process during 1993 aimed at identifying ways in which we can enhance and improve our community-based policing approach and our services to the citizens of Lincoln. This process has involved over 80 police employees, and resulted in 125 recommendations. We are presently implementing many of these recommendations. This process has also resulted in a revision of our mission statement as follows:

"We, the members of the Lincoln Police Department, working with all people, are committed to providing quality police service that promotes a safe and secure community."

Our new mission statement highlights a fundamental belief that the police alone cannot resolve the issues which confront our city. Rather, we must work cooperatively with others to ensure the quality of life we enjoy as citizens of Lincoln.

As 1993 came to a close, Chief Allen Curtis announced his retirement from the Lincoln Police Department after a distinguished career of 23 years, the past seven as chief. Allen Curtis served ably as chief of police during a time of transition, and his efforts are sincerely appreciated by the women and men of the Lincoln Police Department.

We look forward to meeting the challenges of the future with innovation, enthusiasm, and with compassionate concern for our customers--the citizens of Lincoln.

Thomas Casady, Chief of Police

The concept of community-based team policing is not new to the Lincoln Police Department. In 1976, the Lincoln Police Department started community policing based on a team policing philosophy. Officers were assigned to specific geographical teams allowing them more interaction with community members.

With new issues confronting law enforcement today, the Lincoln Police Department felt it was necessary to further implement community policing. The philosophy of community-based team policing encourages the police, citizens, and agencies of government to work together in an effort to solve crime and neighborhood problems.

In October 1992, the Lincoln Police Department began its effort to fully institutionalize the philosophy of community-based team policing. Assistant Chief John Becker facilitated a steering committee comprised of 21 individuals representing all segments of the department. The members identified several critical areas needing research to include employee development, community involvement, department structure, managing calls for service, and the education, training and hiring of employees. Subcommittees were created utilizing 50 additional department employees. Each group was assigned a specific charge to help direct their research.

The strategic planning and research effort for community-based team policing occupied a majority of 1993. Each subcommittee completed their research and formulated recommendations for incorporating community-based team policing. The subcommittee proposals will all be reviewed beginning in 1994.

With the emphasis on expanding community-based team policing, the steering committee developed a new mission and goal statement for the department.

Citizen Academy

The spring of 1992 marked the inception of a new program designed to expand citizen knowledge of police services. The Citizen Academy was created to facilitate the flow of information to community members about the role of law enforcement in Lincoln.

During its first year, the Lincoln Police Department Citizen Academy had 50 participants. Individuals were selected who represent all segments of the community. Citizens received instruction in criminal law, domestic crisis intervention, internal affairs, police ethics, drugs and gangs, and crime scenes. As part of the academy, participants were given K-9 demonstrations, conducted building searches, viewed a firearms demonstration, and rode with an officer for an evening.

The nine-week academy is held twice during the year. At the culmination, individuals are presented with certificates of graduation. The academy has proven itself to be an excellent way for citizens to interact with the police department and learn police procedures.

Gallup, Inc. Citizen Survey

In February 1993, Gallup Inc. approached the Lincoln Police Department with a proposal to survey citizens on police performance and quality of service. The two organizations formulated a survey method and determined the category of citizens to be contacted. Questions for the survey were developed using citizens and police personnel.

The Lincoln Police Department previously participated in a citizen survey which was conducted on an annual basis. The Gallup Inc. survey provides an ongoing process for evaluating police services. Citizens contacted are those who have been involved in an accident, are a crime victim, or were issued a citation. Each day, letters are mailed to persons requesting they phone an 800 number and answer a series of questions. Individuals are also called directly by Gallup Inc. and surveyed.

The following is a sample of results presented to the Lincoln Police Department in November.

Lincoln Chaplaincy Corps

The Chaplaincy Corps is comprised of licensed or ordained clergy from a large cross section of the religious community. Chaplains volunteer their abilities as counselors and mediators to help solve community problems where law enforcement is not an appropriate remedy. Chaplains serve regular tours of duty in a specially marked, fully equipped police vehicle.

As an alternative way of handling calls, officers request a chaplain in situations involving spiritual, emotional and other crisis situations. Chaplains have been particularly valuable in assisting with alcohol related problems, death notices, drug abuse, acute depression, mental problems, family arguments, problems with the elderly and juveniles, suicide attempts and in providing comfort to victims of crime.

The Lincoln Chaplaincy Corps has police and fire department responsibility. Chaplain assistance is often required for those victims displaced by fire and other disasters requiring the fire department's response.

In addition to on-scene assistance, the duty chaplain often arranges follow-up care and assistance where needed through various churches, community organizations and social service agencies.

There are currently 33 duty chaplains. Harry Walles is the current senior chaplain. The board of directors meets monthly and consists of seven duty chaplains, senior chaplain, assistant senior chaplain, two liaisons, and three community members. Captain Edward Ragatz of the Lincoln Police Department and Deputy Chief Lawren Brodd of the Lincoln Fire Department serve as liaison between the Lincoln Chaplaincy Corps and their respective agencies.

Reaccreditation

The Lincoln Police Department was the first agency in Nebraska to gain an accredited status in April 1989. To remain accredited, law enforcement agencies are required to have a second Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies (CALEA) assessment within five years.

Beginning in the fall of 1992, the Management Services Unit entered into a self-assessment phase which is associated with reaccreditation. This process involved reviewing 900 files, updating all necessary information, and providing written documentation of continued compliance with national standards.

The reaccreditation assessment in January 1994, will be very similar to the initial assessment in 1989. It will include a complete review of all 900 standards, public hearing, and two days of open phone lines for public comments. At the conclusion, the assessors will make a recommendation to the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies. The final determination will be announced at the CALEA conference scheduled for New York City in March 1994.

Refugee Liaison

The Community Services Unit is fortunate to have two full-time liaison employees/interpreters that are funded by a federal grant. Jung Nguyen and Maria Vu are involved in an outreach program to refugees and immigrants. This novel program includes translation of written materials, newsletter publication, sponsorship of a youth group, orientation classes for newly-arrived immigrants, training for city employees, and other community outreach activities.

Maria and Jung have been working with a local radio station and plan to have a thirty-minute program broadcast in Vietnamese. The radio program and creation of a Refugee Citizen Academy workshop are new endeavors for 1994.

Victim/Witness Cellular Phone Project

The Lincoln Police Department Victim/Witness Unit, Lancaster County Sheriff's Office and the Domestic Violence Coalition are involved in a new cellular phone project to enhance the perceived safety of domestic violence victims.

Cellular phones are provided to victims of domestic violence when there is a concern for their continued safety. The phones are programmed to call 911 and other non-emergency law enforcement numbers. This allows a victim added communication capabilities because they are able to utilize the phone inside their residence and out in the community.

Victim/Witness Coordinator JoAnna Svoboda said she believes this program is the only one of its kind in the nation. Most agencies provide a similar service, but utilize panic buttons instead. The Lincoln Police Department is proud to be involved in this worthwhile project.

12 Police Department Comparisons

A survey of several police departments was conducted for the purpose of comparing statistical data. Midwestern cities having similar populations were selected and constitute a majority of the survey. Each department provided information on their yearly budget, city population size, and number of commissioned personnel. With this data, calculations were made of cost per capita and officers per 1000 population.

There are other categories of data that could have been collected, such as calls for service, Part I crimes, and clearance rates. The data used for this survey is not intended to be all-inclusive. However, we believe it is indicative of the efficiency and cost effectiveness of a police department.

When comparing the Lincoln Police Department to other departments, it appears that our agency is operating with a minimal number of officers at a fraction of the cost. As you can see from the statistics, other cities having the same population as Lincoln employ over 100 more officers. We are pleased to report that the Lincoln Police Department ranked first in the category of cost per capita and first regarding fewest officers per 1000 population.

Officer Gregory Sims

Master Police Officer Gregory Sims was selected as the 1993 Officer of the Year by the Meritorious Conduct Board. Greg has been a commissioned officer for 15 years and is currently assigned to the Northwest Center Team.

Officer Sims' performance during 1992 was exceptional. He received a written commendation from Eastern Ambulance for his life saving efforts in October. Officer Sims performed CPR and revived an elderly male who collapsed.

In January, Officer Sims was confronted by an extremely dangerous and violent individual who had brutally assaulted a female. He successfully took this individual into custody after struggling with him in a life threatening encounter. Sims' quick response and apprehension prevented further injury to the female and other innocent citizens.

After hearing of an armed robbery, Officer Sims began to check his beat for the suspect. He located an individual matching the description and took him into custody. Additional investigative work revealed the suspect was responsible for three other armed robberies.

During the 1992 calendar year, Officer Sims worked 940 calls for service and arrested 248 misdemeanants and nine felons. He sent a total of 399 cases to court for adjudication, maintaining a filing rate of 97.2 percent.

Congratulations to Officer Sims for being honored as the Lincoln Police Department Officer of the Year for 1993.

In January, team and support unit commanders may nominate an officer who has contributed in an outstanding and exemplary manner the preceding year.

In January, team and support unit commanders may nominate a non-commissioned employee who has contibuted in an outstanding and exemplary manner the preceeding year.

Public Service Officer Karen Wells

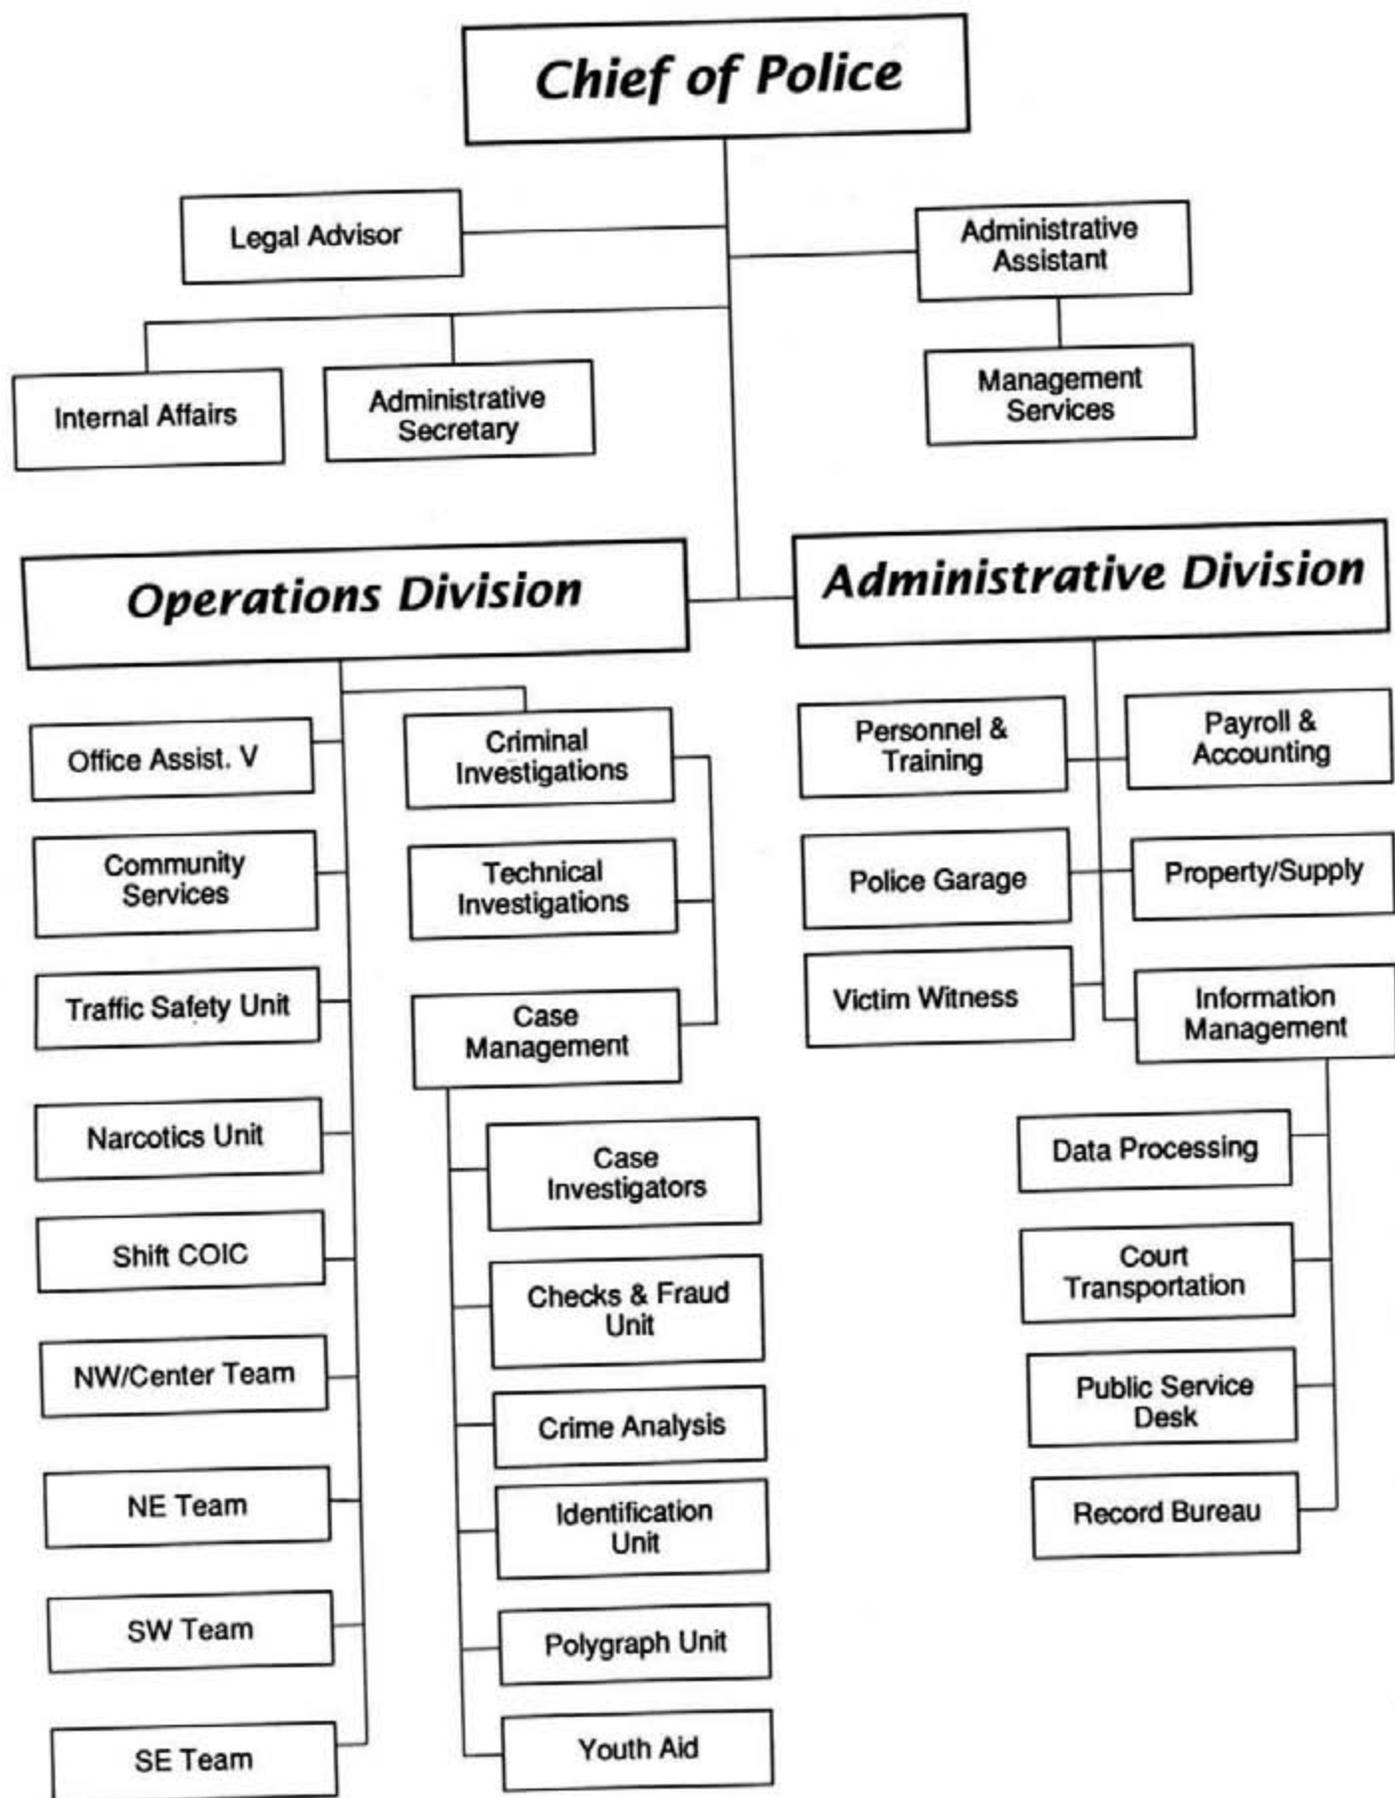

Public Service Officer Karen Wells was selected by the Meritorious Conduct Board as the 1993 Non-Commissioned Employee of the Year. Karen has been a Public Service Officer for 13 years and is currently assigned to the Youth Aid Unit.

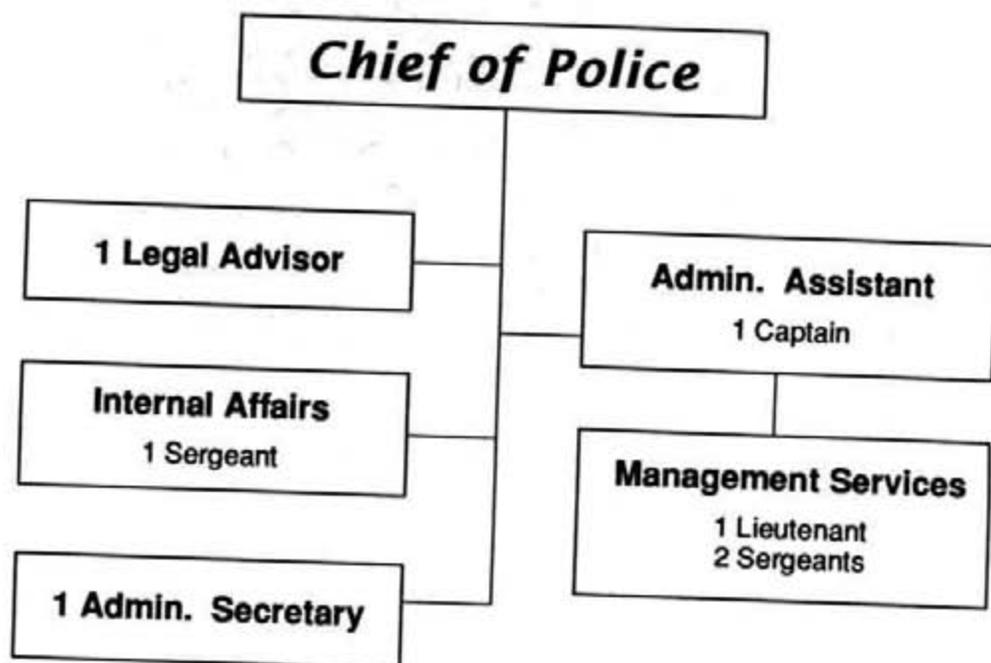

Karen is responsible for making appointments for parents and their children when a juvenile has been referred to the Youth Aid Unit for a criminal offense. During 1992, there were 2,776 referrals made to the Youth Aid Unit. The appointment scheduling also involves an explanation of the diversion system and how it operates. Karen is also responsible for checking all Day Care Licenses, Foster Care Licenses, and background investigations for Child Protective Services.

Karen's excellent organizational skills and memory were cited as examples of her exceptional abilities. She is described as a "one person records department and information office" for juveniles. This attribute has been utilized by field officers and unit co-workers alike.

Congratulations to Public Service Officer Karen Wells for being the first person selected as Non-Commissioned Employee of the Year.

Organizational Chart

The Lincoln Police Department's current organizational structure is comprised of three divisions. These divisions include the Management Division, the Operations Division and the Administrative Support Division.

The Management Division contains those units which are necessary for the effective direction and control of the police department by the Chief of Police. This division is headed by the Chief of Police and consists of an Administrative Assistant, Internal Affairs Unit, Inspections Unit, Planning Unit, Media Relations and the office of the Legal Advisor.

Administrative Assistant/Fiscal Manager

Administrative Assistant to the Chief of Police, Captain Peter Larimer is responsible for a variety of administrative functions. He oversees the operation of the Management Services Unit which includes the Inspections Unit, Planning Unit, and Media Relations. Management Services is currently in the process of reaccreditation for the department.

As Fiscal Manager, Captain Larimer is responsible for preparing, monitoring and managing all budget activities for the Lincoln Police Department.

Inspections Unit

Inspections serves as a means for the department to internally monitor its administrative and operational policies and procedures. The process of self-evaluation is constantly occurring through the review and updating of department policies. Periodic unit inspections are held to ensure the efficient and effective operation of department resources.

The office of Inspections also has the arduous task of maintaining the department's compliance with national accreditation standards. These standards are designed to reflect the best professional practices in each area of law enforcement. The department will seek reaccreditation in January 1994.

Lieutenant Lee Wagner heads the Inspections Unit. He is also the coordinator of the Crime Stopper program and legislative liaison.

Captain Larimer

Internal Affairs

The functional responsibility of the Internal Affairs Unit is to police the conduct of its officers. If a complaint is made on an officer's actions, an investigation is coordinated by the Internal Affairs Unit. Sergeant Kenneth Koziol is assigned to the Internal Affairs position.

Complaints are accepted from any source inside, as well as outside, the department. A citizen inquiry or complaint may be against the department, an officer, or any general order of the police department. All findings made during the course of an investigation are recorded and forwarded to the Chief of Police for final disposition.

In the spring of 1993, the Internal Affairs Unit began a new procedure involving the exchange of information with the Citizen Police Advisory Board. Quarterly meetings are held with board members to inform them of serious internal affairs complaints under investigation. During the meeting, they are provided with statistical information on minor complaints, officer commendations, and the volume of officer/citizen contacts.

Legal Advisor

John McQuinn of the City Attorney's Office serves as the Lincoln Police Department's legal advisor. He operates from an office located at department headquarters. The legal advisor assists the department in such matters as warrant processing, providing updated information on new legislation and court rulings, questions of legality concerning police activity, training, and the preparation of cases.

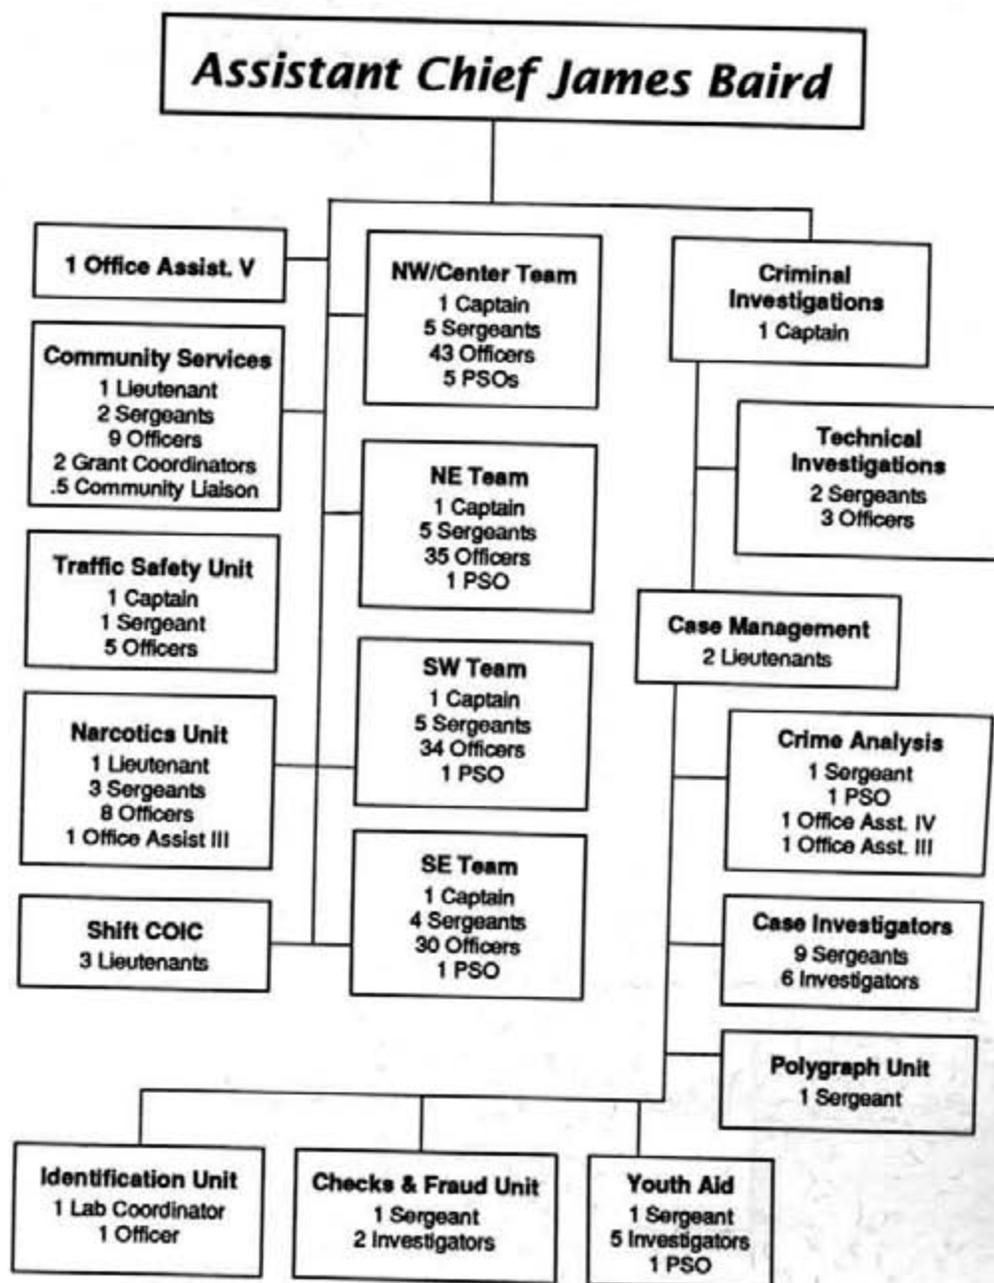

Media Relations

The office of Media/Community Relations was created to ensure the timely dissemination of information to the media on police activities, programs, and criminal investigations. As Public Information Officer, Sergeant Ann Heermann prepares written press releases and conducts a daily briefing for press personnel.

As part of the Management Services Unit, the Media Relations Sergeant is responsible for assisting with the accreditation process. The media position also includes production of the department's annual report.

Planning Unit

Sergeant Terrence Sherrill is the planning officer for the Lincoln Police Department. The Planning Unit serves a variety of functions relating to department program development and research. As a member of the Management Services Unit, the Planning division is responsible for grant application and administration. The other responsibilities include monthly statistical reports, capital improvements, workload analysis, budget preparation, and accreditation.

Assistant Chief James Baird commands the Operations Division which includes the four Community Police Teams, Criminal Investigations, Traffic Safety Unit, Narcotics Unit and Community Services.

The teams handle all line functions of the police department including calls for service, patrol, criminal investigations, traffic safety, narcotics, crime prevention and community relations.

Assistant Chief Baird also supervises the duty lieutenants who are responsible for 24-hour supervision of police operations.

Narcotics Unit

Lieutenant Duaine Bullock heads the Narcotics Unit. He has a staff of three sergeants and eight officers. The primary function of this unit is to identify and develop cases against major suppliers of narcotics in the Lincoln area. Unit members also assist team officers with narcotics investigations.

In September 1981, Chief Leitner initiated a departmental goal to increase enforcement of narcotics and dangerous drug laws. In March 1982, it became apparent that individuals living outside the Lincoln city limits were also contributing to the drug problems in the city. To combat these problems, the Lincoln Police Department, University of Nebraska Police Department and the Lancaster County Sheriff combined their units into one cooperative unit.

The Lincoln/Lancaster County Narcotics Unit is now comprised of personnel from the Lincoln Police Department and Lancaster County Sheriff's Office. Two members of the County Attorney's staff are assigned specifically to coordinate the prosecution of narcotics cases.

Polygraph Unit

As a member of the Criminal Investigations Team, Sergeant Robert Kawamoto is responsible for administering polygraph exams relating to criminal investigations. He also performs polygraphs for officer applicants.

Shift Duty Commanders

As part of the Operations Division, shift commanders are responsible for 24-hour supervision of police operations. Their function is to oversee each shift by monitoring calls for service. Shift Duty Commanders are responsible for reviewing incoming written reports and coordinating the scene of all serious incidents.

Technical Investigations Unit

The Technical Investigations Unit is supervised by Sergeant Tim Domgard and Sergeant Myron Carkoski, and they are assisted by three investigators. The Technical Investigations Unit performs a variety of functions which include investigations of violations relating to banking statutes, embezzlement and frauds of $2,000 or more, gambling schemes, organized crime, non-profit lotteries (pickle cards/bingo), perjury, political bribery/corruption, computer crimes, extortion, liquor and vice, designated internal investigations, prostitution, and other investigations assigned by the Chief of Police.

During 1993, a new position was created to monitor Lincoln's keno activity. An investigator performs background investigations on owners, operators, managers, and supervisors administering keno. Criminal investigations are also conducted relating to keno activities.

Traffic Safety Unit

Captain Doug Ahlberg commands the Traffic Safety Unit of the department. He supervises one sergeant and five officers who are specifically assigned to traffic enforcement throughout the city. Members of the Traffic Safety Unit are responsible for selective enforcement and traffic safety education. The unit also serves as liaison with other traffic-related agencies.

Youth Aid Unit

The Youth Aid Unit operates under the auspices of the Criminal Investigations Team. Sergeant Linda Steinman supervises the unit which utilizes five investigators for youth-related investigations.

Captain Ahlberg

Case Investigators

The Lincoln Police Department utilizes nine sergeants and six investigators on cases prepared by the Criminal Investigations Team. Members conduct primary investigations and offer assistance to officers working on difficult cases. They also respond to investigations of a serious nature to assist officers with crime scene processing.

Checks & Fraud

The Checks & Fraud Unit is staffed by Sergeant Charles Hennessey and two investigators. Unit members conduct primary investigations and perform follow-up work on fraud and forgery cases. Frequently investigations are lengthy and time consuming due to the multiple offenses involved.

Community Services Unit

The Community Services Unit is responsible for administering several programs within the Lincoln Police Department. Lieutenant Doug Srb heads the unit which coordinates the Drug Abuse Resistance Education program (D.A.R.E.), Crime Prevention program, Youth Academy, Citizen Academy, Police Summer Camp, and Volunteer program.

Two Vietnamese interpreters were added to the staff in 1992 with the assistance of a federal grant. They are utilized by officers who need translations when contacting Vietnamese citizens. In addition, they translate crime prevention information into Vietnamese, provide multicultural training to city employees, translate for Vietnamese D.A.R.E. students and publish a bi-monthly newsletter for the Vietnamese community.

To provide the community with an accurate portrayal of the Lincoln Police Department's function, the Citizen Academy was created in 1992. It allows citizens the opportunity to experience the role of a police officer in today's society. A nine-week academy is conducted twice a year allowing 50 citizens to participate.

Crime Analysis/Intelligence Unit

The Crime Analysis Unit operates under the direction of Sergeant William Larsen, who is assisted by a staff of three. The unit provides information to department members on known offenders, patterns of criminal activity developing throughout the city, and situations that may be potentially dangerous to responding officers. The Crime Analysis Unit also coordinates all Crime Stopper information and reports.

Identification Unit

The Identification Unit is staffed by Marlin Rauscher and Officer Robert Citta. Both are qualified document and fingerprint examiners.

This unit is primarily a crime lab, specializing in document and fingerprint examinations. In addition, it's a complete forensic photography lab which is vital to the identification field. The unit examines questioned documents and latent fingerprints which are then prepared for expert court testimony.

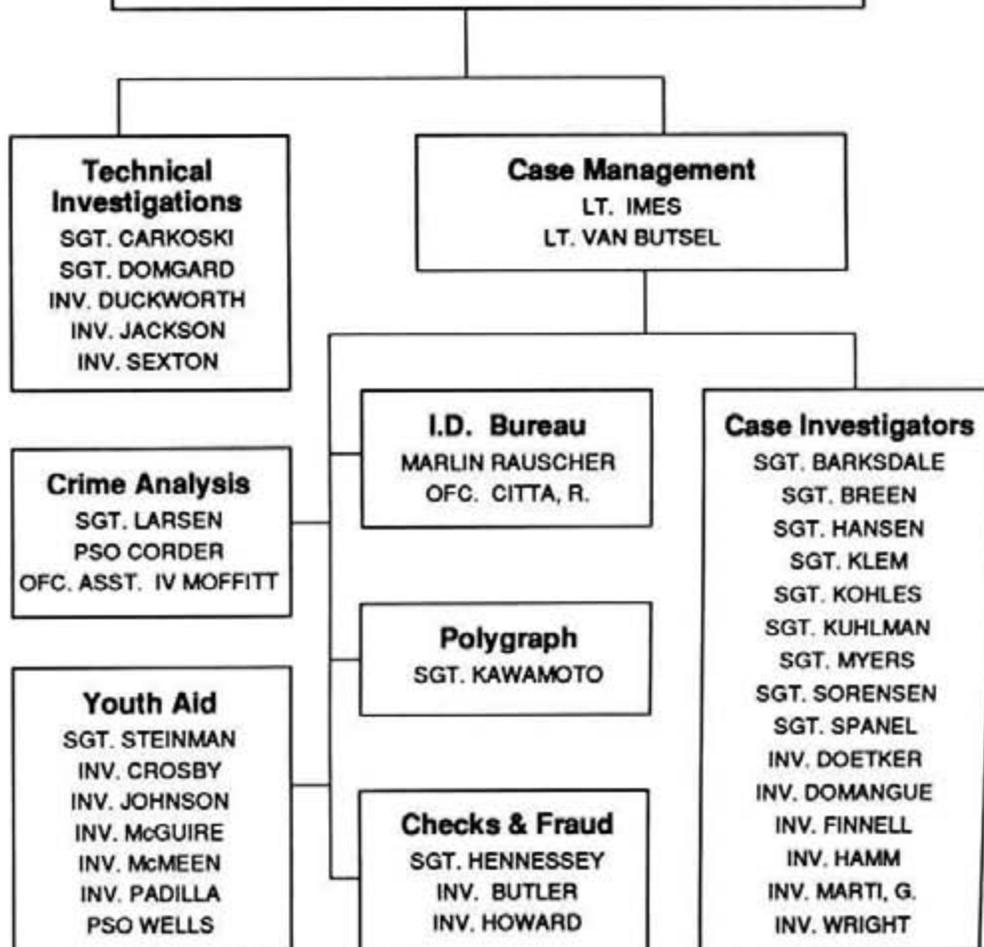

The Identification Unit receives all inked fingerprints from the jail which are classified and file-searched. Copies are then sent to the FBI and the state.

Youth Academy

Criminal Investigations Team Captain Rowe

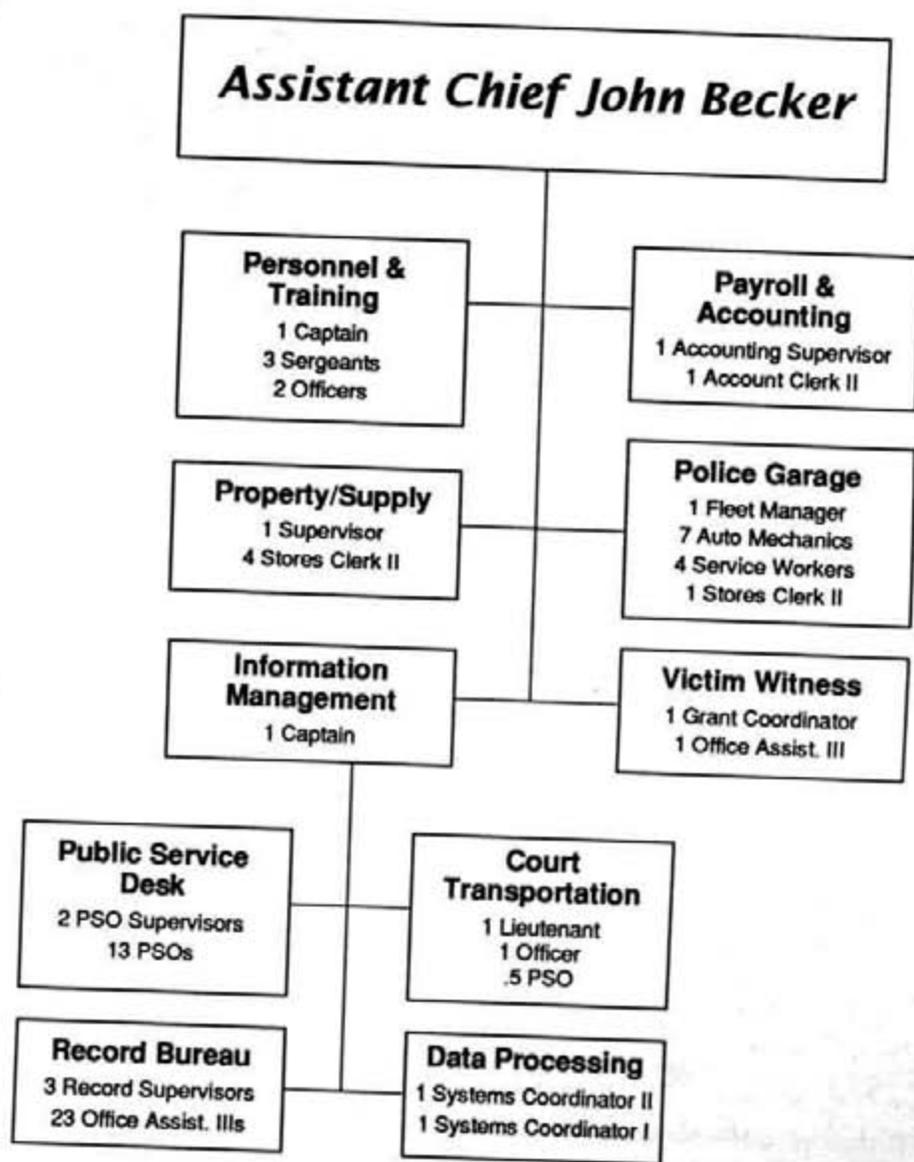

Captain Frank Rowe

commands the Criminal Investigations Team with the assistance of two lieutenants. The team provides support for the four community police teams. The Criminal Investigations Team includes the Youth Aid Unit, Checks and Frauds Unit, Polygraph Unit, Identification Unit, Technical Investigations Unit, Crime Analysis Unit, and a selection of Case Investigators.

The Criminal Investigations Team is responsible for assisting team officers on serious cases, especially those that demand special skills or expertise to investigate. Members of the Criminal Investigations Team are also assigned to extensive investigations because of the amount of time required to complete the case.

The Youth Aid Unit has been given several areas of primary responsibility. It handles the intake and referral of youth, ages 7 to 15, who are contacted for a law violation. This is accomplished either through resolution by a Youth Aid investigator or direct referral to Juvenile Court. Additionally, Youth Aid investigators have the responsibility of coordinating and pursuing all juvenile runaway cases.

The Youth Aid Unit manages and conducts primary investigations on child abuse and neglect cases, including child sexual assaults. The unit is the liaison for agencies that provide services to children and attempts to help schools with their juvenile-related problems. The investigators provide information to school populations through presentations on the criminal justice system and relevant issues.

Assistant Chief John Becker

commands the Administrative Support Division. The division provides the resources and services necessary to supplement and maintain field operations. The Administrative Support Division encompasses the maintenance of property and equipment, training of department personnel, and management of information and records, service desk, data processing, and the police garage. There are 10 commissioned officers and 66 civilians who operate within the division.

Information Management

Captain Edward Ragatz heads the Information Management Unit. He is assisted by two commissioned and 43 civilian employees. The units working within Information Management include the Court Transportation, Data Processing, Public Service Desk, and Record Bureau.

Court Transportation

Lieutenant Jerry Smith supervises this unit with the assistance of one commissioned employee and one non-commissioned employee. The function of the unit is to process and investigate applicants for licenses and permits issued by the city. It is also the responsibility of the unit to transport prisoners from the jail facility to court.

Data Processing

Clair Lindquist directs the activities of this unit with the assistance of Jacqueline Willhoft. The Data Processing Unit is responsible for enhancement and maintenance of the existing computer system. This includes the development of new programs focusing on the ease of retrieval for on-line data. The unit also strives to increase the timeliness of data entry into the automated systems.

Public Service Desk

Service Desk personnel assist the public in many capacities and generally are the initial contact point for individuals with an inquiry or problem. The desk is operated by two supervisors, Cheri Marti and Earl Franklin, and assisted by thirteen Public Service Officers. The Public Service Desk is open to the public Monday through Friday, 6:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. and is staffed for emergency service after hours.

Public Service Officers frequently take police reports on selected offenses, explain ordinances and warrants, handle all phone calls, and receive and document Crime Stopper information.

The Service Desk also works directly with officers by operating an information radio channel. When necessary, an officer can request warrant information, check on stolen vehicles or property, obtain vehicle registrations, driver's histories, and gun registrations.

Unit members are responsible for operating and maintaining files within the National Crime Information Center system. This system provides data on persons or property from other states in a matter of seconds. It also serves as a link to outside law enforcement agencies through teletype communication.

Record Bureau

The Record Bureau maintains and processes all department reports which includes both criminal reports and accident files. The unit has three supervisors and is staffed by an additional 23 civilians. Throughout the course of the year, over 90,000 investigative reports are processed.

In conjunction with the Data Processing Unit, a majority of the record keeping function has been converted to a computer-based operation. A substantial portion of the remaining paper records are reduced to microfilm for convenience in storage and handling.

Fleet Management

Jerry Robb, unit manager, is assisted by seven mechanics and five service workers. As Fleet Manager, he is responsible for the control of all department vehicles. He assigns them on an equitable basis between teams and units, ensuring the efficient and effective use of the fleet.

Captain Ragatz

Preventive maintenance, vehicle repair, distribution of mileage evenly among vehicles, and the general appearance of the police fleet are also the responsibility of the unit.

Payroll & Accounting

Rhonda Ihrle supervises the Payroll & Accounting Unit with the assistance of one employee. The unit is responsible for the maintenance of personnel files, management of financial accounts, and bi-weekly payroll for all Lincoln Police Department employees.

Personnel & Training Unit

Captain Joy Citta directs the personnel and training function of the department. She is assisted by Sergeant Jerome Thraen who coordinates in-service and recruit training, and Sergeant Robert Ziemer, the department firearms instructor.

Sergeant James Hawkins is the designated police recruiter and is responsible for all phases of the hiring process. The Lincoln Police Department tests applicants once a year and hires individuals on a quarterly basis. The training program for new officers includes a twelve-week academy in Grand Island, a four-week academy in Lincoln, and a five-month field training period.

The Personnel and Training Unit is also responsible for career development, promotional testing, specialized training, and non-lethal force instruction.

Property & Supply Unit

Pamela Fittje is manager of the unit, and is assisted by four employees. Custody of all evidence gathered by the police department is maintained by the Property & Supply Unit.

The unit handles requisition and distribution of equipment and materials necessary for the function of the department. It is the responsibility of this unit to ensure an effective means by which property can be secured and accounted for, thereby preserving its integrity and chain of evidence. Every reasonable effort is made to return property to its rightful owner. The Property & Supply Unit coordinates vehicle and property auctions and is responsible for the destruction of contraband when it is no longer needed as court evidence.

Victim/Witness Unit

Jo Anna Svoboda, administrator of the unit, is assisted by one staff member and a group of volunteers. The unit provides assistance for victims or witnesses of certain crimes handled within the jurisdiction of the Lincoln Police Department, Lancaster County Sheriff's Office, University of Nebraska Police and the Nebraska State Patrol.

The Victim/Witness Unit provides information and support to help victims of crime deal with and overcome the short- and long-term problems caused by victimization. This includes community referrals and assistance in filing for crime victim compensation and protection orders.

Witness services are geared to improve victim and witness participation in the criminal justice system by providing basic information on courtroom procedures, case information, witness management services, and other related support.
